

CREATORPRENEUR CHALLENGE

THE CHALLENGE

Choose a successful creator with at least 1 million followers or subscribers on any major platform and build a new product business around them.

The product can be a physical product, digital product, or tech product.

But avoid the obvious ideas.

Do not simply suggest a course, coaching program, merch line, agency, webinar, or creative service.

Your job is to understand the creator's audience, content universe, trust, personality, and community behaviour - and then build a product that feels like a natural business extension of that creator. Your product should not feel like something the creator is randomly selling. It should feel like something their audience was almost waiting for.

Your goal is simple: Turn a creator's attention, trust, and audience insight into a real product business that people would actually buy.

You will build:

1. A creator selection with proof of audience size
2. A creator analysis covering niche, content style, audience, trust, and community behaviour
3. A clear audience problem or desire
4. A non-obvious product idea
5. Product category: physical, digital, or tech
6. Product features, benefits, and use case
7. Pricing and business model
8. Competitor or alternative analysis
9. Go-to-market campaign using the creator's own content channels
10. A launch plan covering pre-launch, launch, and post-launch
11. A deck explaining your complete creator-led business strategy

For additional brownie points, you may also create:

1. Product mockups
2. Landing page copy or design
3. Packaging design

4. App or website wireframes
5. Sample launch content calendar
6. 3 sample launch posts or reel scripts
7. A basic revenue projection

PRODUCT ELIGIBILITY

To be eligible for submission, your creator-led product idea must meet the following conditions:

1. The creator must have at least 1 million followers or subscribers on any major platform.
2. The product must be built specifically around that creator's audience, trust, and content universe.
3. The product must be a physical product, digital product, or tech product.
4. The idea must not be a generic course, coaching program, merch line, agency, webinar, or creative service.
5. The product must solve a clear audience problem, desire, or repeated behaviour.
6. The product must feel commercially realistic and not just creatively interesting.
7. The pricing model must be clearly explained.
8. The go-to-market campaign must use the creator's existing content, audience, and distribution strength.
9. The launch plan must include pre-launch, launch, and post-launch phases.
10. The final idea must show how the creator can become a business, not just a content channel.

The Question You Are Trying to Answer

Can I turn a creator's audience, trust, and content universe into a real product business that people would actually buy without taking the lazy route of courses, merch, or services?

FINAL SUBMISSION

Submit the following:

1. Presentation/deck explaining your creator analysis, audience insight, product idea, pricing, and go-to-market strategy
 - a. Creator selection with proof of audience size and platform presence
 - b. Audience problem or desire that the product is solving
 - c. Product concept with features, benefits, pricing, and business model
 - d. Go-to-market campaign using the creator's content channels
 - e. Launch plan covering pre-launch, launch, and post-launch
2. Bonus: Product mockups, landing page, packaging, wireframes, sample launch posts, reel scripts, or revenue projection
3. Date of Submission: 23rd June 2026